CUSHENDALL

STARTING POINT

High Street, Cushendall.

ROUTE DESCRIPTION

Cottage wood is found on the outskirts of Cushendall village. It is a 10 acre broadleaved woodland site with a network of paths winding their way through viewpoints and picnic facilities. What makes this woodland a must to visit is a very special and increasingly rare inhabitant, the Red Squirrel, which is regularly seen in this woodland.

The area contains a range of native and nonnative species of trees and shrubs. Scots Pine, Elder, Holly, Ash, Horse Chestnut, Beech, Sycamore, Gorse, Spruce, Ivy, Laurel, Rhododendron, Elm and Fuchsia can all be found here. Also, a wide range of plants grow below the woodland canopy including Wood Sorrel, Primroses, Saxifrage, Wild Garlic, Celandine, Bluebells, Violets, Herb Robert, Cuckoo Flower, Stachys, Cow Parsley and Foxglove.

Many wild birds frequent the woodland. Look out for Robins, Blue Tits, Sparrows, and Blackbirds. Bullfinch, Linnet, Skylark, Song Thrush, Spotted Flycatcher, Yellowhammer and Reed Bunting have also been spotted.

Nearby are two play areas for children and picnic tables with BBQ facilities.
